The Common Protocol

To get knowledge on more things in less time

The fastest one will be the first one in real world competitions. In order to be the fastest one in gathering knowledge, you need a protocol to gather knowledge on more things in less time. You will find that the special protocols are of no use in gathering knowledge on a wide range of things because they are limited and specialized to deal a narrow range of things. In this connection, you will find that the common protocol is the only protocol which can be used to gather knowledge on a wide range of things.

Everyone and everything has parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes as specific properties. You must see them in order to get knowledge on everyone and everything. Nothing lacks these properties. You too have parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes as your specific properties. Your specific properties must be seen in order to get knowledge on you. You are not the only one to have these properties. Everyone and everything has these specific properties. Any protocol to get knowledge will direct you to see these specific properties of everyone and everything around. Any protocol which directs you not to see these specific properties will not take you to knowledge. This document entitled 'the common protocol' is set to direct the people to see the specific properties of everyone and everything around in order to get knowledge. Any protocol which directs you to see the specific properties referred by the common protocol is not a special protocol.

You would be the fastest one in gathering knowledge, only if you are perfect in knowing the specific properties of everyone and everything. You won't be fast enough to be the first one, if you are not perfect in knowing the specific properties of everyone and everything. Perfect yourself to see the parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes of everyone and everything in and around, if you wish to be the fastest one in gathering knowledge.

In the same way, you would be the fastest one in translating the observations into words and phrases, only if you are perfect in representing the specific properties of everyone and everything. You won't be fast enough to be the first one, if you are not perfect in representing the specific properties of everyone and everything. Perfect yourself to represent the parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes of everyone and everything in and around, if you wish to be the fastest one in translating the observations into words and phrases.

With unfamiliar things, you may feel stuck down. Under such circumstances, you may look for a new protocol to guide you. There is no need to look for a new special protocol. You can use the same common protocol to get knowledge on the unfamiliar things too. You will find that even the unfamiliar things too have parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes as their specific properties. The common protocol will fail only if you make something which lacks parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes. But, you will never make something which lacks these properties.

Human intelligence seeks commonness in order to understand the diverse array of people and things around. Failure to see the commonness is a sign of intellectual impairment. You can damage the intelligence of fellowmen and women very easily. Educate them to believe that no one can become a great special one by looking at the commonness. Educate them to believe that one can become a great special one only by making a difference. Make them believe that it is an absolute law. People who have started believing that no one can become a great special one by looking at the commonness will refuse to see the commonness. They will always try to make and mark the differences. Commonophobia or commonnessophobia is a psycho-pathological condition in which an individual develops aversion to see the commonness among the diverse array of people and things around. Everything will be a new unfamiliar thing to the commonophobics. People who see everything as a new unfamiliar thing will have a fear to face the real common world. The intellectually impaired people who fear to face the real common world will become slaves.

People who refuse to see the commonness among the diverse array of things in the universe will be ignorant of the principles which govern everyone and everything. They will be ignorant of the universal interconnections. They will be illogical. Logical operations seek commonness to connect major and minor premises. Intellectually impaired people will be unscientific. They will confuse principle with example. Principles are universal. Science tries to discern and make use the common universal principles. Whatever is not common to all is not a universal law. People who refuse to see the commonness will lack inventiveness. No new thing will be designed by them. It is the common principles which guide us in designing new things. No one can design a rocket without the basic knowledge on common gravitational law. Whatever you learn today is worthless if it is not a principle which is applicable in future. Whatever is not common to past, present, and future is not a principle. Whatever is common to all is a principle.

You should not become a victim of the fallacies which are intended to spoil your intelligence and make you a slave. You should not forget the fact that you are very much like everyone else in the universe. 'You are different from them' does not mean that 'you have nothing in common with them'. You eat like everyone else. You sleep like everyone else. Like everyone else, you too have parts, uniqueness, connections, influences, stability, uses, and substitutes. You will understand yourself only by seeking your commonness to the rest in the universe. Seeking your commonness to the rest makes everything familiar and understandable to you. You will be happy and confident with the familiar. Your ideas will concentrate by seeing commonness among differences. Seeing the commonness will encourage you to approach different things with the same idea. Seeing the differences alone will discourage you to approach diverse things with the same idea. People have an innate fear to deal the unfamiliar. Seeing the differences alone will bring discontinuity in the flow of your thoughts. Differences distract us. Finding a difference would help you to just relate none other than the two between which the difference exists. But, the knowledge on commonness would help you to relate everyone and everything.

You will find yourself in ruins if you keep overemphasizing that you are different from the rest. Finding a difference is a task of dealing just two things between which it exists. But, finding a commonness is a task of dealing everyone and everything. The task of finding and marking a difference is relatively easier as compared to the task of finding and marking the commonness among everyone and everything. It may be easier for us to find and mark the differences. But, overemphasizing the differences alone will dwindle our communications. Communications are to make us feel the commonness and understand each other.

People will isolate and alienate you, if they feel that you have nothing in common with them. People won't consider you as their representative, if they feel that you are not one among them. People won't even consider you as a human, if they feel that you are too different from them. You are not a human being if you have nothing in common with your fellow human beings. People seek the common ones in order to understand and deal the uncommon ones. You would not have seen your relationship to your parent, if you lack the intelligence to see the commonness between you and your parent. You will never understand the human society if you lack the intelligence to see the commonness among people.

People won't consider you as a great intellect if you don't even have the intelligence to understand your fellowmen and women. In order to understand the diverse people and things in your universe, you must see the commonness among them. No education, no science, no technology can eliminate the commonness among people. Education is supposed to help us feel the commonness among us, help us to understand each other, help us to understand the universe in which we exist, and help us to have a peaceful life. The schools, colleges, and universities which direct our children to ignore the commonness are not educational institutions. The intelligence of our children will be damaged by the schools which direct our children not to see the commonness. Our children will become illogical and unscientific. Schools will not help our children to understand each other. They will make our children inhuman. They will not bring peace and happiness in the lives of our children. They will spoil the future of our children and humanity. Ignore them. You need no education in order to be an intellect. Reinstate your intelligence if you want to be an intellect.

Commonness must be seen in order to understand the diverse people and things in the universe!
